SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Store on Southeast corner of the Diamond, Huntingdon, Pa.

MISSES.

Unlucky Vulcan! Venus tricked him:
A fashion with the ladies this is.
I'm not amiss; but I'm a victim
To a whole host of wicked misses.

Miss Fit supplies my boots and coats,
And vain is all my indignation;
My cash-book and my gold and notes
Are managed by Miss Calculation.

Miss Take has played me many a trick;
Miss Spell will always write my letters,
Miss Trust declines to give me tick;
Miss Manage lets off all my debtors.

Miss Print is wont to spoil my rhyme—
A very wicked habit is hers;
And if they quote me any time,
Miss Quote's the girl to use the scissors.

When Chrismas bumpers overflow,
And bells ring loud from many a minster,
I can't get near to Miss L. To,
Save with some very ancient spinster.

Well, easy 'tis down hill to glide,
And vain the Parcæ to importune;
So let me wed my bonny bride—
A charming child she is—Miss Fortune.
—Echoes from the Clubs.

Our Correspondence.

EDS. GLOBE:—Feeling like a repentant truant, I come to you begging your pardon—you paragon of inken justice. This morning when your ever-welcome sheet was handed me, I had the blues—very blue—but the touching and melting clipping "Don't Stay Long," swept the shade of troubled thought from my brow, and silently did I commune on woman's love, and in inspiration seized my pen, and this, O Globe! do take as my humble offering:

Scene First—Honey-moon.

"Don't stay long, dear husband."

From the pallid lips dropped the yearning speech, a manly arm encircles the taper waist, and after the customary crushing of lips he said, "I bet I won't"—and didn't.

Scene Second—Moon Waning.

"Don't stay long, husband."

I see the lovely light of affection beaming in her eyes—the music of her voice dies away, leaving the world sad. "Have my dinner in time," growls the brute. How can she? Is it not New York Ledger day, and musn't she discover what saved the lovely "Clara" from the foul "Don Alphonso Brazos?" She liveth on intellectual food—romantic lunchies—sigh-drawn beverages—so good, so fair, so innocently confiding—so good to read about! How cruel that such lovely buds should ever be culled from the family hot-house by bold, bad, practical men!

Eclipse, (written by a "don't stay long" husband.)

"Don't stay long, husband."

"Oh who could resist that most touching appeal of husband, dear husband, come home." Home to what? Why not stay long? Home, the ideal—how lovely! Home, where I stay—how insipid! You come home—"Dear me, how soon you are this evening! Why supper's not near ready"—(only 8 P. M.) Wonderful announcement! As if it ever is! You go through the farce of saying, "I'm not very hungry, dear," (a lie—you could digest an ax,) and seize the paper, hum an old opera air, run over the telegrams, digest the ponderous editorials, consider the financial state of the country, read over all the frightful accidents, and wonder why those sore afflictions, accidental marriages, never appear in their columns; then over the "Marriages"—how appropriate that the "Deaths" always follow! What a relief that "man must die." At length, when through with my reverie and my paper, I look up, and there's my helpmate looking at me so sadly that I flatter myself she's thinking "what a Job-like creature my husband is," when she sadly shakes her head, and as sadly says, "How cruel you are!" There you sit, reading, puffing, and I stand frying and crying, and not one word of endearment from you! Oh, oh! what a difference now and then!"—She means when she and I were "one," which was for the first two weeks after it became my privilege to pay her bills. At last I'm seated; I know my bills—butchers, bakers, provision dealers, milk-man and butter-man's—are quite as heavy as my neighbor Jones' (who has five Joneses), and all I know of their visits is in the unpalatable conglomerations gotten up for me under the head of "meals." I'm not rich; I cannot afford a cook; I gave my dear an enterprising German girl to help her, whose only knowledge consists of knowing nothing but obedience. My wife is now teaching her "crocheting," to put up her hair "waterfall," and curing her of her "nasty German ways" of rolling up her sleeves and forgetting her feet were intended to be "gaitered" during pavement washing. (She wears my wife's gaiters.)

State of Exasperation.

"Don't stay long, husband."

No, don't—hurry, fly—I do. 'Tis so pleasant when a friend comes home with you—an old schoolmate—practical, straightforward, unassuming. You say, "Dear, entertain Harry until I can be with him." You return. Harry looks wretched. You listen. "Do you think Lucille Western cries naturally in East Lynne?" and "How little taste our minister, Mr. Clark, has. Why last Sabbath he looked like a perfect fright, with his collar all awry, &c." Harry gently pulls his to remove all semblance of wrinkle (He never attends theatres or church, and is wonderfully indifferent as to his personal appearance.) I come to the rescue. Well, he stays and sups with me. We talk of our jolly days gone by. We are boys again. How the mad capers come teeming up, and we laugh at our old castles, built by youth's hopes and destroyed by man's experience. A hearty hand-shaking, and promise of again calling, and he's off—because he's on the "don't stay long" list. And Oh! zounds, how I catch it when I enter the presence of Mrs.——! "And so that's one of your particular friends? Why he's intolerable. I talked to him of all the topics of the day, and he sat there the embodiment of silence. How he does lack culture, and he's so awkward. Did you notice his feet? Why he didn't know how to arrange them—first on one side of my best chair, and then on the other. I'm sure their scratched and ruined. For my part I can't see what's amusing in your gunning, fishing, sleighing, quilting and husking parties. I never enjoyed them. And it seems to me you were entirely too anxious to know if Miss Stephens was married; and then you both going into extatic praise of her! Had I been the lady discussed, I'm sure 'twould not be to enroll me among the angelic. I now see why I meet such uniform coldness at your hands; and I tell you I never want that odious man to come here again. Any society but mine! Oh dear! when will girls learn that their only happiness consists in their independence?" A cry, a quick rushing from the room, and I was left, wondering why we are always at odds.

I tell you I'm not happy; and, although I've as yet obeyed the injunction "don't stay long," I find the companionship I gave up when I took to myself "my loving one" commences to have for me an attraction I can hardly resist. I pray I may, for should I not, why then I fear me the "don't stay long" will fall upon unheeding ears. I believe my wife loves me as well as she can; but, unfortunately for me, she has misinterpreted the ceremony that the ignorant suppose makes of two, one, and understands that I only am "to love, honor and obey," and fight it out on that line. Young men! young women! enter not into this state called "matrimonial," until every vestage of romance has been eradicated from your natures. I warrant the "don't stay long, husband," will become then the rare, and not as now, the common, injunction from the lips of our attachments. Oh! for practical kindness! and to the dogs with this sickly sentimentality!

I am yours, truly,
A MAN OF EXPERIENCE.

CONCERNING SERMONS.—There is a great deal of pulpit preparation and pulpit performance, "word upon word, line upon line," page upon page; and yet, measuring the great mass of preaching, there is scarcely anything the people buy and pay for that so effervesces. How few persons of the congregation can remember even the text of sermons! "O, we had such a b-e-a-utiful sermon this morning—it was splen-did." "Ah, glad to hear it; what was the subject?" "Well—w-h-y—the subject? W-h-y, w-e-l-l, now I declare, let me see—the subject? What's this the text was?—now, really, what makes me so forgetful? I am sure I thought I could remember that—but it has slipped my mind."

And that's the way it goes. Sermons are generally so oily that they slip the people's minds. Why not rough them a little—make them raspish—so that somebody will be rubbed against the grain—stirred up—tendered—so impressed that at least the text and theme and leading thoughts and points may be remembered? Dr. Cuyler speaks of sermons that have tone and touch to them, and his words are apropos: "A poor, juiceless sermon ought never to be preached the first time; but a meritorious, savory discourse may be made all the better on a second delivery. Dr. Addison Alexander preached his glorious sermon on the 'Faithful Saying' until he wore out the manuscripts; and Dr. Griffin repeated his elaborate discourse on the 'Worth of the Soul' ninety times! He never wearied of it—nor did his audience either. The congregations change constantly, and memories are leaky. A first-rate practical sermon ought to be repeated (with extempore improvements) about once in five years. Fewer sermons and richer should be a settled pastor's aim. Whitfield attained great finish and power by giving the same discourses over again through all his missionary tours."

LOST TIME.—Let any man pass an evening in vacant idleness, or even in reading some silly tale, and compare the state of his mind when he goes to sleep or gets up next morning with its state some other day when he has spent a few hours in going through the proofs by facts and reasonings of some of the doctrines in natural science, learning truths wholly new to him, and satisfying himself by careful examination of the grounds on which known truths rest, so as to be not only acquainted with the doctrines of themselves, but able to show why he believes them, and to prove before others that they are true, will find as great a difference as can exist in the same being—the difference between looking back upon time unprofitably wasted, and time spent in self-improvement; he will feel himself in one case listless and dissatisfied; in the other comfortable and happy. In the one case, if he did not appear to himself humble, he at least will not have earned any claim to his own respect; in the other case he will enjoy a proud consciousness of having by his own exertions become wiser, and therefore a more exalted nature.

☞Be not afraid of hard study; it is the price of learning.

The Noble Revenge.

The coffin was a plain one—a poor miserable pine coffin. No flowers on its top, no lining of the rosewhite satin for the pale brow; no smooth ribbons about the coarse shroud. The brown hair was laid decently back, but there was the crimped cap, with its neat tie beneath the chin. The sufferer from cruel poverty smiled in her sleep; she had found bread, rest and health.

"I want to see my mother," sobbed a poor child, as the city undertaker screwed down the top.

"You can't—get out of the way, boy; why don't somebody take the brat?"

"Only let me see her one minute?" cried the hopeless orphan, clutching the side of the charity box, and as he gazed into the rough face, anguished tears streamed rapidly down the cheek on which no childish bloom ever lingered. Oh! it was pitiful to hear him cry, "Only once, let me see my mother only once."

Quickly and brutally the hard-hearted monster struck the boy away, so that he reeled with the blow. For a moment the boy stood panting with grief and rage, his blue eyes distended, his lips sprang apart, a fire glittered through his tears, as he raised his puny arm, and with a most unchildish accent screamed, "When I am a man, I'll kill you for that."

There was a coffin and a heap of earth between the mother and the poor forsaken child—a monument much stronger than granite, built in his boy-heart to the memory of the heartless deed.

The Court House was crowded to suffocation.

"Does any one appear as this man's counsel?" asked the Judge.

There was silence when he finished, until, with his lips tightly pressed together, a look of strange intelligence blended with haughty reserve upon his handsome features, a young man stepped forward with a firm tread and kindly eye, to plead for the erring and friendless. He was a stranger, but from his first sentence there was a silence. The splendor of his genius entranced—convinced.

The man who had not a friend was acquitted.

"May God bless you, sir, I cannot."

"I want no thanks," replied the stranger, with icy coldness.

"I—I believe you are unknown to me."

"Man! I will refresh your memory. Twenty years ago you struck a broken-hearted boy away from his mother's poor coffin. I was that poor boy."

The man turned livid.

"Have you rescued me, then, to take my life?"

"I have a sweeter revenge; I have saved the life of a man whose brutal deed has rankled in my breast for twenty years. Go! and remember the tears of a friendless child!"

The man bowed his head in shame and went out from the presence of a magnanimity as grand to him as incomprehensible, and the noble young lawyer felt God's smile in his soul forever after.

MERCANTILE MAXIMS.—The way to get credit is to be punctual. The way to preserve it is not to use it much. Settle often; have short accounts. Trust to no man's appearance—they are deceptive—perhaps assumed for the purpose of obtaining credit. Beware of gaudy exterior; rogues usually dress well. The rich are plain men. Trust him, if any one, who carries but little on his back. Never trust him who flies into a passion on being dunned; make him pay quickly, if there be virtue in the law. Be satisfied, before you give credit, that those you give it to are safe men to be trusted. Sell your goods at a small advance, and never misrepresent them, or those whom you once deceive will beware of you the second time. Deal uprightly with all men, and they will repose confidence in you, and soon become one of your permanent customers. Beware of him, who is an office seeker. Men do not usually want an office where there is anything to do. A man's affairs are rather low when he seeks office for support. Trust no stranger. Your goods are better than doubtful charges. What is character worth, if you make it cheap crediting all alike? Agree before hand with every man about to do a job, and, if large, put it into writing. If any decline then quit—or be cheated. Though you want a job ever so much, make all sure at the onset; and in cases at all doubtful, make sure of a guarantee. Be not afraid to ask it, it is the best of responsibility; for, if offence be taken, you have escaped a loss.

☞A little incident occurred on Wednesday morning in one of the cars of the Hartford and New Haven Railroad, which gave a gratifying proof of the deference paid by young men to the wishes of their ladies, and their readiness to supply a want as soon as it becomes known. The car in question was nearly filled, as the cars are apt to be in this day of travel. Its floor near the door was covered with tobacco juice, as, alas! car floors are likely to be in this day when the use of the vile weed so much prevails. At one of the way stations a well dressed lady entered the car, looked with unconcealed disgust at the pools of yellow and slimy juice on the floor, then raised her dress slightly and picked her way across. The only vacant sitting in the car was on a seat occupied by a young man, who at once made room for the lady by his side. As soon as she was seated, with a look of relief, mingled with one of solicitude, the lady asked her seatmate, "Do you chew tobacco?" "No, ma'am," was the reply, "but I can get you a chaw if you like."

An Esquimaux Belief.

The following is the singular belief of the Esquimaux in regard to the origin of the sun and moon:

"In a distant country there once lived an unmarried woman, who had several brothers. Being once at a festive gathering, she felt herself suddenly and violently seized by the shoulders. This she well knew was a declaration of love, for such is the custom of her people; but who the man was she could not discover, since the hut was quite dark. There being, to her knowledge, no men in the village besides her brothers, she at once suspected that it must be one of these. She broke from him, and running away, smeared her hand with soot and oil. Upon returning to the hut she was seized again, and at this time she blackened one side of the face of her unknown lover. A lighted taper being brought soon afterward, her suspicions were confirmed. Seizing the taper, she now ran out of the hut, and bounded over the rocks with the fleetness of a deer. Her brother lighted a taper and pursued her, but his light went out; yet he still continued the chase, and without having overtaken her they came to the end of the earth. Determined not to be caught, the girl then sprang out into the heavens. Her brother followed her, but he stumbled while in the act of springing, and before he could recover himself the object of his pursuit was far away from him. Still bent upon gaining the prize, he continued the race, and from that time until this the sun has been going around and around, and the moon around and around after her, trying still to catch her. The bright light of the sun is caused by the taper which the maiden carries, while the moon, having lost his taper, is cold, and could not be seen but for his sister's light. One side of his face being smeared with soot, is therefore black, while the other side is clean; and he turns one side or the other toward the earth, as suits his pleasure."

THE BABY.—Who knows not the beautiful groups of babe and mother, sacred in nature, now sacred also in the religious associations of half the globe? Welcome to the parents is the puny struggler, strong in his weakness, his little arms more irresistible than a soldier's, his lips touched with persuasion which Chatham and Pericles in manhood had not. The small despot asks so little that all Nature and Reason are on his side. His ignorance is more charming than all knowledge, and his little sins more bewitching than any virtue. All day, between his three or four sleeps, he coos like a pigeon-house, sputters and spurns, and puts on his faces of importance; and when he fasts, the little Pharisee fails not to sound his trumpet before him. Out of the blocks, thread-spools, cards, and checkers, he will build his pyramid with the gravity of Palladio. With an accoustic apparatus of whistle and rattle he explores the laws of sound. But chiefly, like his senior countrymen, the young American studies new and speedier modes of transportation. Mistrusting the cunning of his small legs, he wishes to ride on the necks and shoulders of all flesh. The small enchanter nothing can withstand—no sonority of age, no gravity of character; uncles, aunts, cousins, grandsires, grandames—all fall an easy pray; he conforms to nobody, all conform to him; all caper and make mouths, and babble and chirrup to him. On the strongest shoulders he rides, and pulls the hair of laureled heads.—R. W. Emerson.

KIND INQUIRIES.—Cousin Kate was a sweet, wide-awake beauty of about seventeen, and she took it into her head to go down on Long Island to see some relations of hers who had the misfortune to live there. Among those relations there chanced to be a young Swain who had seen Kate on a previous occasion, and seeing, fell deeply in love with her. He called at the house on the evening of her arrival, and she met him on the piazza, where she was enjoying the evening air in company with two or three of her friends.

The poor fellow was so bashful that he could not find his tongue for some time. At length he stammered out:

"How's your mother?"

"Quite well, thank you."

Another silence on the part of Josh, during which Kate and her friends did the best they could to relieve the monotony. After waiting about fifteen minutes for him to commence to make himself agreeable, he again broke the spell by—

"How's your father?" which was answered much after the same fashion as the first one, and then followed another silence like the other.

"How's your father and mother?" again put in the bashful lover.

"Quite well, both of them." This was followed by an exchange of glances and a suppressed smile.

This lasted some ten minutes more, during which Josh was fidgeting in his seat and stroking his Sunday hat. But at length another question came—

"How's your parents?"

This produced an explosion that made the woods ring.

☞God has written on the flower that sweetens the air—on the breeze that rocks the flowers upon the stem—upon the rain-drop that refreshes the sprig of moss that lifts its head in the desert—upon its deep chambers, upon every pencilled sheet that sleeps in the cavern of the deep, no less than upon the mighty sun that warms and cheers millions of creatures which live in its light—upon all his works he has written—"None liveth for himself."

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Wednesday morning, Nov. 27, 1867.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

☞There never was a time when candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency were as numerous as now, and every day adds to the number. We could select several we could give an earnest support, but we must wait until the office hunting politicians tire in their efforts to kill off the best men.

☞The Conservative colored men in Richmond called a meeting to express their "abhorrence of such firebrands as Lewis Lindsay and others." It would be a sad community, indeed, in which no one could be found to express their horror at the horrible speeches and deeds of such a man and his followers.

☞The Fortieth Congress resumed its adjourned session on Thursday last. The first bill in the Senate was for further securing the rights of the negroes in the District of Columbia—to hold office. Thad. Stevens was in his chair, but in feeble health. The Judiciary Committee reported on the impeachment of the President on Monday and the report was ordered to be printed. The impeachers will make every effort to impeach the President, but they will fail. The indications are that no important business will be done this week.

☞Col. Moseby, the notorious guerilla, made his appearance at the Gold Room in New York, on the 19th inst. He had been invited by the Vice President. A number of members protested against his being introduced to the body, when, on motion, the board held a meeting, and, by an almost unanimous vote, decided to sustain the action of the Vice President. Col. Mosby was then introduced to those of the members who desired to form his acquaintance. We venture the assertion that he was greeted by Radicals as well as Democrats.

☞Gen. Ord, commander of the Fourth Military District, did a good thing in telegraphing to the officers and agents of the Freedmen's Bureau in his department, to send him the name or names of any officer or other person who has been making or may make inflammatory speeches to freedmen, or endanger the public peace by exciting one class or color against another. The speech makers are the guilty ones, while the ignorant negroes are the dupes, and the former should be arrested and dealt with vigorously. The negroes are ripe for anything the hot-headed Radicals may suggest, and we say we are glad that Gen. Ord has taken measures to prevent serious consequences between the two races.

☞"We requested only one sensible reason for their opposition to negro suffrage, but our request has failed to elicit a single argument in favor of their position."—Journal & American.

Our position is opposition to negro suffrage and negro political equality. The question has been an open one for months—for years. In every State the people have discussed the question—and in every State where the question has been made an issue, the white people have declared against it by overwhelming majorities—arguments we think strong enough to convince any ordinary mind that negro political equality would not add to the prosperity and happiness of the people. Wendell Phillips, Thad. Stevens, Fred. Douglas & Co., have for years attempted to force negro equality upon the people, and the editors of the Journal & American have been lookers on and have not yet seen a single argument to satisfy them that Phillips, Stevens, Douglas & Co., should be defeated in their purposes. The position of the editors of the Journal & American is just this: They will make no effort to defeat negro political equality. They are not opposed to negro political equality because they cannot be convinced that it would be wrong to force it upon the people.

☞The National Union State Committee held a meeting in Philadelphia and adopted the following resolutions:

Whereas the result of the late elections has proven that the confidence expressed by our chief magistrate in the will and ability of the people to rebuke or approve of the deeds of legislators or rulers has not been misplaced, and

Whereas the necessity for an immediate union of all the elements opposed to Radical domination and oppression, upon a basis which will embrace Republican and Democrat, National Union and Conservative, has likewise been demonstrated, and

Whereas prompt and efficient action only can accomplish the complete overthrow of the Radicals; therefore

Resolved, That the chairman is hereby directed to fill up such vacancies as exist in the committee for districts not now represented, and to proceed immediately to make such arrangements as are necessary to accomplish a thorough organization of the State, and confer with parties holding similar views in other States, with a view to effect an organization of the Conservative men of the country.

Seth Hurd, of the Brownsville, Pa., Clipper thinks it may be possible that those enthusiastic admirers of General Grant who are nominating him for the presidency are "a little previous in their action in the premises."

IMPEACHMENT.

Great Excitement in Political Circles.

[Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Commercial.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 23, 1867.

There has been a great deal of excitement in political circles on the subject of impeachment. The injunction of secrecy voted by the Judiciary committee at a recent meeting has given rise to the impression that at least one of the Republican members (Mr. Churchill, of New York,) has changed his views on the subject of impeachment, so as to give a majority report for the measure on Monday next. There has been an attempt to get the Republicans into caucus on the subject, but so many members have declined to participate or to agree to be bound by its action, that it will not be held. The advocates of impeachment have been very actively canvassing since Thursday, but so many members refuse to commit themselves before hearing the testimony that nothing can be ascertained as to the probable action of the House when the matter is fairly before it. The Missouri and Tennessee delegates are quoted as unanimously for the proposition. A majority of the Illinois delegates are against it. In the Ohio delegation, Messrs. Ashley, Eckley, Shellabarger, Lawrence and Schenck, are openly for it, and most of the others are openly against it.

Mr. Bingham denounces the whole proceedings as unwise for the country and for the party, and says that unless a stronger case is shown than was made last July, he will move to lay the whole subject on the table. He says it is a scheme to force the Republican party into the support of Benjamin Butler for next President. Alluding in conversation to the pending bill, to suspend during trial, he spoke of it as the most outrageous piece of legislation he had ever heard proposed, and that it would blow the Republican party out of water if passed.

Mr. Ashley says that if a majority report is presented in favor of impeachment it will certainly be adopted by the House. He claims to have polled the Republican members, and to have ascertained how each will vote, yet it is known that several whom he records in the affirmative have expressed no determination to vote that way.

Mr. Lawrence, of Ohio, says the President will be out of office within forty days, believing it will take less than thirty days to carry the articles through the Senate and secure conviction.

New York stock and gold spectators have been anxiously telegraphing for reliable information on this subject, in the belief that the success of the impeachment project even in the House, will very materially affect the gold and stock market.

The Committee on impeachment had a meeting to-day, but of the result nothing is positively known. The most that has transpired is that there has been a very stormy time in the Committee.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.

The Judiciary Committee met at 9 o'clock this morning, for the purpose of hearing read the reports of the majority and minority on impeachment. They will be signed and presented to the House after the Speaker announces the standing committees.

The majority report will be signed by Messrs. Williams, Boutwell, Thomas, Lawrence, and Churchill. The minority by Messrs. Wilson, Chairman, Woodbridge, Eldrige, and Marshall. The latter's report is very elaborate, nearly twice the length of the majority report. Great excitement prevails throughout the city respecting the impeachment question, and it is the general theme of conversation in all circles.

The Negro Conventions in the South—Their Effects on the North.

[From the N. Y. Herald.]

Alabama has led the van in the reconstruction of the United States by the negro. Other States are to follow, until, under a glorious negro rule, the ten southern divisions of our republic are bound and given over to Africa, to be governed according to the Haytien style. The principles of the conventions which frame these negro governments are shaped by the most unprincipled of all our demagogues. Without a dollar of interest in the country, they stir the pliable black man to passion against the white, and while moulding the mass to suit radical aims, sow the seeds of an unavoidable war of caste. They do not fail to promise the negro all that his barbarous imagination may desire—freedom from labor, a division of property, and even the government of the country. Thus, for transient political purposes they force the whole sunburned brain of Ethiopia to the same focus, and teach it to expect what it can never realize while there is a Southern and a Northern sword left to defend Caucasian blood—blood originally purer than that of Africa, and purified still more by long centuries of arduous labor towards the summit, civilization; blood progressive, in contradistinction to blood retrograde and naturally barbaric in its impulses.

In the face of all this we see power centralizing in the South in the hands of that element which according to all history, is a threat against any civilization with which it comes in contact. The platform of the radical Republican party of Louisiana is a fair exponent of what threatens us in all the Southern States by raising up a power ten times more destructive and nationally demoralizing than any that has heretofore existed. That platform states:—"We as a party insist on perfect equality, without distinction of race or color, in the right to vote and enter the jury box without any educational or property qualification being required." Again:—"The radical Republican party of Louisiana will support no man for office who will not openly and boldly pledge himself to make an equal distribution among white and colored alike of all offices to which he may have power of appointment."

These are the mad principles which at a terrible cost, we urge upon one half of our territorial extent, thus threatening its complete desolation. Were it the destruction of only one half of the country we might, in our wonderful stamina, live under it; but the radical programme means more than this—it means the draining of every energy of the North to support the one grand black idea, and, at any cost, forcing the negro down the throat of the nation. We struggle under it, we bleed, we expend our millions, we tax our people to the last feather's weight, we fairly writhe beneath the terrible efforts to swallow a dose that would choke a mammoth anaconda. We cannot do it, and we cast it aside as something that would give the coup de grace to all the cherished hopes of a people who are struggling for civilization, not barbarism. We are taxed to-day one thousand millions per year to support the radical idea that Africa has a higher civilization than Europe, and that it is necessary for the United States, at any sacrifice, to approximate itself to the African standard.

The radicals, determined to give all the strength possible to the negro card, train every element in the North to its support; and while in the South they tear down all barriers which distinguish races, while they abolish every aristocratic privilege, while they inaugurate there a Utopian agrarianism, they give us a singular contradiction of principles in the North. Here they strive to build up great moneyed monopolies, a dictatorial banking system, a centralization of party power, an enriching of the rich and an impoverishing of the poor. Thus it becomes difficult to discover that there is any great underlying principles in radicalism, unless it be the sole idea to retain at all hazards the power into which the revolutionary throes of the country forced them.

The North is beginning to dive into this problem, and is rapidly discovering its inconsistencies. There is a deep and settled resolution taking possession of the masses that they will no longer support aristocratic privileges in the North or negro elevation and barbarism in the South. Bled to the last drop of blood and treasure, they begin to ask, "What is this money used for?" and look where they will they see the question answered:—To prop up a quarter section of Africa, until we see if centuries hence it will be able to march onward unaided. God never made one race to support another. For this we made war in favor of the black. As matters now progress under radical rule, we fast advance to a war to relieve the white from supporting the black.

The future aspirants for the Presidency must learn the truths which we here enunciate. If General Grant accepts the radical nomination upon such a platform as the radicals now tread he will be defeated, despite his national popularity and his masterly reticence. General Scott was defeated where there were similar but minor principles involved, and President Pierce, with all his imbecibility, then stepped into power.

In the South we see all the preliminary movements for a desolating war of caste, if the present programme be carried out. The negroes have numerous leagues, and are providing themselves with arms, which are given to them by the radicals. The white people, despairing of returning again to prosperity, and seeing their every effort met by a crushing blow from Congress, now give the country over to negro rule, and emigrate elsewhere. Domestic capital threatened, and northern and foreign capital frightened away; State and municipal privileges completely under military domination, which is destructive to every element of our boasted republicanism; the credit of the States destroyed; and one-half of the country desolated at the expense of the other half, are all mournful indications of approaching barbaric government. The effect on the North is already indicated by the late elections. The negro wave must now ebb. It has had its greatest flow. The radicals may still float on the receding black tide; but the white people of the United States, as a mass, have too much sense left to place their future civilization and government under negro domination.

VENGEANCE DEFERRED.—Upon one of the festival days in Naples it was customary to have some individual mounted upon an ass, who for two hours rides through the city personating the Savior, and who, during that time, must endure the most intolerable buffets and insults. So vile is the treatment to which this person has to submit it is often difficult, even by the offer of a large pecuniary reward, to induce any person to accept the office. On one occasion, an American sailor, tempted by the gold, accepted the job. His ignorance of the language spared him the verbal contumely, but the outrages upon his person were fully appreciated. He endured all bravely, until, when near the close of his work, he was assailed personally in the most offensive manner. Shaking his dripping garments, he turned upon his assailants and exclaimed, "Villains, wait until I have done playing Christ, and I'll clean out this town."

CHURCHES IN THE UNITED STATES.—The American report made to the General Evangelical Alliance, at Rotterdam, gives the following number of churches and communicants in the United States:—

	Churches.	Communicants.
Roman Catholic	3,800	4,000,000
Methodists	10,460	2,000,000
Baptists	17,220	1,690,000
Presbyterians	5,000	700 000
Lutherans	2,900	323,800
Congregationalists	2,780	267,400
Prot. Episcopalians	2,300	161,200
German Reformed	1,160	110,000
Dutch Reformed	440	30,000

United Brethren, about 3,000 Societies
Moravians, about 12,000 communicants.
Unitarians, about 300 churches.
Universalists include about 600,000 of the population.
Friends or Quakers, orthodox, about 54,000 members.
Friends or Quakers, Hicksites, about 40,000 members.

☞A Maine mechanic has procured a patent for an invention for running shafting at right angles, or at any angle, without the use of gearing or belting. The idea is entirely novel. A slide bar is placed in the angle, and motion transferred by the action of a double crank on each shaft. The machinery runs without the least noise.

☞A young woman in Clarion county has developed wonderful powers as a racer. In a recent race against time she made 2½ miles in seventeen minutes, and she now challenges all Clarion county to produce her equal in a race of from one to five miles, at twenty dollars a side, and for the championship.

The West Indies.

HAVANA, November 15.

By this mail I send you, very briefly, the principal facts in regard to the late disastrous tornado in these islands:

The Porvenir of Porto Rico of the 31st, of October says:—"At the late hour at which we write it is impossible to judge of the great terror which prevails, resulting from the horrible effect of the hurricane of the night before last. The great fall of rain, the force of the wind, the almost complete darkness, produced in the minds of the people a condition verging towards insanity. In the early hours of the night the Capital of Porto Rico bore altogether the aspect of a deserted city At 5-45 the storm commenced, and at 6-15 the hurricane was at its height; at this hour the barometer marked 29-60. During the prevalence of the hurricane several vessels in the harbor were either totally destroyed or very badly damaged."

The Porvenir of the 3d inst., says:—The hurricane has immolated a multitude of victims, destroyed houses, desolated plantations, swept away fields of grain, and deprived thousands of poor in one night of their means of livelihood.

At St. Thomas the damage was very great indeed. In the Island of Tortola the destruction has been truly lamentable. From what we can learn there is not a single house standing on the Island; the plantations are literally swept clean; hundreds of lives have been lost; in short, it is impossible to judge of the destruction at this moment.

On the island of Vieques the effects of the storm are almost equally noticeable. Most of the vessels lying near the island were destroyed. To add to the terror with which the storm filled the hearts of the inhabitants, a fearful conflagration broke out while the hurricane was at its height, and occasioned new disasters.

In the Cidra we learn that 96 houses were destroyed and several lives lost. In Loiza 27 houses were destroyed and several lives were lost.

It is impossible as yet to estimate the number of lives lost, or the amount of damage done to property. We have reports of English, French, and Spanish vessels of large tonnage which have been swept away by the force of the storm.

The Porvenir of the 6th of November contains additional accounts of the disastrous effects of the hurricane.

As the mail is just closing, I must defer further particulars of this most disastrous calamity.

Pen and Scissors.

A tallow tree grows in Attakapas, Louisiana, and on the bayous of St. Mary, from which enough berries may be gathered in a day to make eight pounds of superior tallow, much harder and purer than common tallow.

In St. Louis there are 1590 retail liquor shops. It is estimated there is one American dramseller to 922 Americans, one Irish barkeeper to 143 Irishmen, and one German beerseller to 52 Germans.

Mr. J. Rube Hawkens has invented a method of mutilating postage stamps which he thinks will be effectual. Only gum half the stamps, he says, and let the clerks in the post-office tear off the other half.

The editor of one of the Bridgeport, Conn., papers goes into exstacies over four giant strawberries just presented him. The gentleman who raised them has had strawberries, from the same vines, on his table every week since June, and expects to have more till the cold weather of January sets in.

South Carolina will probably be safe from famine this winter. Letters from that State say that the most abundant corn crop for many years is now being harvested. It is selling for fifty cents per bushel, but there is little sale for it, as few have money to buy any.

Oak Ridge Cemetery, where President Lincoln's remains lie, presents a beautiful appearance now, the ground being terraced like a pyramid. His tomb is a plain vault, with no show of any description, but the monument to be erected will be a credit to the country. Governor Oglesby has nearly the amount ready to begin the work.

In a previous article on our new Russian-American possessions, we referred to the value of the cod fisheries recently discovered there. Although only in the second year of their prosecution, the yield to September 30 was 638,400 fish, or 788 tons, with the probability of twice this amount additional before the close of the season.

The oldest person in the State of Connecticut is Mrs. Lord, of East Lynne. She is 107 years old, and retains her mental faculties wonderfully. Her pet theme of conversation is of the Revolution, which she distinctly remembers. Her eyesight is somewhat faded, but she easily recognizes friends, and accomplishes a wonderful amount of knitting.

Some Frenchman has discovered by some unknown method that Adam stood 123 feet 9 inches without stockings. Eve according to the same authority, was 118 feet 9-75 inches. Probably they would have exhibited themselves as giants if there had been anybody to buy tickets.

The oldest couple in Ohio are Mr. and Mrs. Boyd, at Ironton. He is 110 and she 107. They get mad at each other every little while and threaten to obtain divorces. The other day the dame refused to sew on a shirt button for her spouse, when he indignantly inquired "if he had got to live so all his life?"

Many of the farmers in the lower section of Montgomery county have their crops of corn husked by German women from Philadelphia, who take corn husks as pay for their work. They commence operations early in the morning, and by evening each one has an immense sack of husks, with which, balanced on their heads, they trudge into the city. Husks being in great demand for bedding, it is said that they realize from $1 50 to $2 per day for their work.

A terrible accident occurred on the morning of the 21st., on the Cincinnati, Hamilton, and Dayton Railroad. The broad guage express train, due at 6 o'clock, was detained at Lockland by a freight train coming south. While the express train was waiting for the freight train to take the siding, another freight train, that had been following it, ran into the rear of the express, before a man could get out to flag them. Four ladies and one man were burned to death, and nearly all the train burned to ashes. The rear cars were the Toledo train that the express takes at Dayton, the last car being the sleeping car from Toledo. The names or residence of the victims have not been ascertained.

☞The wonderful projectile, called Greek fire, and also, "liquid fire," is said to have been invented by one Callinicus, a machinist of Heliopolis, about the seventh century, and it was used with terrible effect by the Greeks long before it became known to other nations. Though its exact elements, and their proportions, can now be a matter of conjecture merely, it is reasonable to suppose that naptha, pitch, and sulphur were some of its principal ingredients. It was usually kept in jars or large bottles, and could be propelled, in its fluid state, from the prows of ships, and from fortifications, with as much precision as water is now thrown from a fire-engine. The moment it was exposed to the air it ignited, and became a continuous stream of fire, carrying with it excruciating torture and inevitable destruction. Unlike any other combustible, water increased rather than diminished its power; it could only be extinguished by vinegar, or stifled by sand; while, to its other horrors were added a dense smoke, a loud report, and a most disgusting smell. Being thrown on the decks of vessels, and into besieged places, it ignited whatever it came in contact with. Not unfrequently the heads of arrows, wrapped round with tow, were dipped into this horrid preparation, and became the couriers of lurid fire and death. No wonder that the stoutest heart dreaded it; no wonder that it should always be mentioned with horror, and that results almost incredible should have been attributed to it. Happily for humanity, its composition is now unknown; the secret of it appears to have been lost about the same period when gunpowder was discovered—as if God, in mercy, would not allow two such scourges to exist together.

Health Giving Wine.

Some time since Mr. A. Speer, of Passaic, N. J., presented us with a bottle of his Port Grape Wine. In our turn, we presented it to a friend who was in feeble health. After giving the wine a few trials, our friend assures us he derived marked benefit from its use. We find that many invalids in this city are using Speer's Port Grape Wine with the same beneficial results. Druggists keep it.

Speer's Wines

Are the pure juice of the grape, and are unexcelled by any native vintage. They contain valuable medicinal properties, and are of intrinsic worth to the invalid and the convalescent, strengthening the weak, and restoring the system to tone and vigor. Sickly persons and females should try them.

AN ORDINANCE

Enacted by the Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Huntingdon, the 23d day of November, 1867.

WHEREAS, The citizens of this borough have been annoyed and their persons and property have been injured from playing of ball and throwing of stones, &c.,

Be it enacted and it is hereby ordained, that from and after the passage of this Ordinance, it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to play ball, throw stones, snow balls, or any other missile in the streets of said borough.

And be it further ordained, that any person or persons so offending or violating the said Ordinance, shall, for each and every offence, on conviction thereof, before the Burgess or a Justice of the Peace, pay a fine not exceeding five dollars nor less than one, and that on failure or refusal to pay and fine shall be imprisoned in the county jail for twenty-four hours.

And it shall be the duty of the officers of the borough to enforce said ordinance and all good citizens are requested to assist them in the same.

(Signed) G. MILLER, Asst. Burgess
R. McMURTRIE, Sec'y. Presiding.

AN ORDINANCE

Passed the 6th day of November, 1867, for the recovery of purchase money for burial lots.

BE IT ORDAINED, and it is hereby ordained, that the Treasurer of the Borough is hereby directed and empowered to demand and collect the amount due from all delinquent purchasers of lots in the "Huntingdon Cemetery" after giving thirty days notice to such delinquents of the amount due from them, and if necessary to cause suit to be brought for said purchase money in the same manner as suits are now brought for debts of like amount and nature; and he is further directed, in case notice and demand are not complied with, to re-enter and take possession on behalf of the borough, of all lots not occupied by graves or fences, giving notice of such re-entry to the purchasers, and making report thereof at the next regular meeting of Burgesses and Town Council, and also reporting any suits or proceedings commenced against the holders of occupied lots.

(Signed) E. C. SUMMERS,
R. McMURTRIE, Sec'y. Chief Burgess.

DR. LEON'S

ELECTRIC HAIR RENEWER,

Is pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the Hair. It is a positive cure for Baldness, eradicates Dandruff and Humors, stops the hair from falling out, and speedily restores Gray Locks to their original hue and luxuriance.

It operates on the secretions and fills the glands with new life and coloring matter. Thin, dead, faded or gray hair will always be brought back by a few applications, to its youthful abundance, vitality and color.

It makes the hair soft, glossy, fragrant, pleasant to the touch and easy to arrange. Dry, wiry and intractable locks become moist, pliant and disposed to remain in any desired position. As a Hair Dressing it has no equal. The sales are enormous and it is a universal favorite with old and young of both sexes.

—The Indiana Democrat says that during three days last week the merchants of that town sold about 12,000 yards of calico. They undertook to undersell each other and the people went into the contest with interest, providing themselves with Merrimacs, Manchesters, Wamsuttas, &c., at from 8 to 12 cents per yard. The madder the merchants became the more "madder" the people bought. Calico wars ought to be encouraged.

—The fashion now is, at church weddings, to stretch a broad white ribbon across the aisle up which the bridal party pass, and above which none but invited guests are allowed to sit. The bridesmaids enter in pairs, unattended by gentlemen—the groom with his future mother-in-law—the bride with her father. Two of the groomsmen precede the whole party, and the others walk behind. After the ceremony, each of them gives an arm to one of the maids, as the party leave the church.

Court Proceedings.

The following were the cases which appeared before the Criminal Court of Huntingdon County, two weeks ago:

Abraham Lamp, who was indicted at April sessions for fornication and bastardy, not appearing, recognizance forfeited.

Jackson Kyler, found guilty at August sessions of assault and battery, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1 and costs.

David Blair, who was indicted at August sessions, for assault and battery, was found not guilty, but was sentenced to pay the costs.

John Scott, said to be from the State of New York, was indicted for larceny; found guilty, and sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and the costs, and undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for the term of four years.

John Scott was again found guilty on another indictment of larceny and sentenced to pay the same fine, and undergo an additional imprisonment of four years and three months.

David Putt, of Hopewell township, indicted for fornication and bastardy. The case was settled by the defendant marrying the prosecutrix, and on the payment of costs, the District Attorney entered a nolle prosequi.

William Moseby, from Fulton County, was blamed for being an accomplice of John Scott, above named, but as the Court thought the case out of their jurisdiction, the District Attorney enters nolle prosequi.

Oley Robinson, George Askens and Samuel Anthony, charged with larceny, plead guilty, and sentenced to pay a fine of $1 each and costs, and that they each undergo an imprisonment in the county jail for three months.

Jacob Akley and David Akley, indicted for larceny, found not guilty.

S. B. Willoughby, indicted for fornication and bastardy, plead guilty, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $1 and the costs; and that he pay Juniata Hollingshead, the prosecutrix, thirty dollars lying in expenses; and that he pay the same $1 a week for seven years.

George Porter, indicted for assault and battery, was found not guilty, but that he pay half the costs.

Andrew Wise, charged with assault and battery was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs.

Lewis Smalley, indicted for obtaining property on false pretence, was found not guilty.

Jude Givins, colored, was indicted for assault and battery; Continued.

Martin V. Miller, charged with assault. Not a true bill and the prosecutor, Andrew Wise, pay the costs.

David Megahan of McConnellstown, indicted for assault and battery, was found guilty, and sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and costs.

Hiram Terman, indicted for fornication and bastardy, plead guilty, and sentenced to pay a fine of $1 and the costs; and that he pay Matilda Snyder, the prosecutrix, thirty dollars lying in exponses; and that he pay her $1 per week for seven years.

Charles Slaughter, charged with malicious mischief; Not a true bill, and the prosecutor Christian Harry pay the costs.

County Institute.

The Huntingdon County Teachers' Institute, will commence in the Court House, in the Borough of Huntingdon, on Tuesday, December 17th, at 2 o'clock, P. M., and continue in session four days. Teachers and others attending the Institute will be accommodated at reduced rates. Hon. J. P. Wickersham, State Superintendent, will deliver an address on Wednesday evening, December 18th, and will continue longer with us if his time will permit. Prof. Edward Brooks, Principal of the Millersville Normal School and H. W. Fisher, County Superintendent of Bedford County, will officiate as instructors and lecturers. It is also expected that the services of a competent elocutionist and other instructors will be secured. R. M. Speer, S. T. Brown, K. A. Lovell, Esq's, and Dr. J. H. Wintrode will deliver evening addresses. It is earnestly hoped that every teacher in the County will be present if possible. The true teacher will need no urging, but will deem it a privilege to meet with such an opportunity for improvement. It is believed that the different School boards will grant teachers the time to attend, and those who desire better schools will urge upon their teachers the importance of being present. It is high time that Huntingdon county should make some effort to have better Schools. The Principals of private Schools, and the friends of education generally are cordially invited to meet with us.

D. F. TUSSEY, County Supt.

Looking Forward.

An editor of an exchange is indulging in some fond anticipation of the freezing weather of the holidays. We participate "most hugely" in his feelings Here is what he says:

"With what joy do we look forward to Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, and those jolly sleigh rides which rend the soul with happiness supreme, and so forth: for what can come up to a heart so light on a frosty night, and a sleigh jammed full of girls? The last time we went on such a mission, it was one of the coldest nights in the memory of the most fastidious; so freezingly cold that the girls were compelled to ask us to hug up to 'em to prevent them from congealing. Did we? Why of course we did. We froze to 'em like a hungry dog to three cents' worth of liver. After that all was harmony and good feeling, and when we returned to the gal's house, there was a nice, hot mince pie, and a jug of cider. "You bet," we pitched in."

A Noble Object.

A committee will call upon our citizens some day this week to solicit subscriptions for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association, recently organized in this place. It will require no lengthy appeal from us to show the importance of aiding this Association; and we believe that fathers and mothers, and business men generally, will contribute liberally, as they are wont to do, to all worthy objects.

Terrible Accident.

A terrible accident, resulting in the death of a young man named John Myers, and the injury of another named James Louden, occurred at the Hollidaysburg Foundry, on Monday evening last, about 5 o'clock. Myers and Loudon, with several others, were engaged in pushing a carriage, loaded with a heavy iron flask and mould—weighing altogether about five tons—into the core oven. Just as they had entered the oven, the heavy flask was accidently thrown from the carriage, and young Myers was caught between it and the wall, in an upright position, and his breast and body were so severely crushed as to cause his death in a few moments. Young Louden was knocked down, one end of the flask upon him; but fortunately it caught upon some loose castings, lying immediately beside him, or he must also inevitably have been crushed to death.

Young Louden was conveyed to the residence of John R. McFarlane, where he was properly cared for. His injuries, though pretty severe, are not dangerous, and he will probably be able to be about in a few days.

The remains of young Myers were conveyed to the residence of his grandmother, Mrs. Herr, on Juniata street, from whence they will be conveyed to their final resting place in the Lutheran cemetery Wednesday morning. The deceased was about 18 years of age, of most exemplary and praiseworthy habits, and his sudden death is a severe affliction to his retatives, who have the warmest sympathies of the entire community in their sad bereavement.—Hollidaysburg Standard.

A Sweet Examination.

The Bedford Gazette publishes the following:

Not every examination of teachers, turns out as sweet as the one at Stonerstown on last Saturday. Some boys, bent on mischief, had made a journey to a land "flowing with milk and honey," in Huntingdon county, and there captured a bee hive filled with honey. Like the man who drew the elephant at a raffle, they were at a loss to know what to do with their prize. But, as the sequel shows, they finally concluded to store the hive in the Stonerstown school house. Well, the examination of teachers began on Saturday morning. The applicants for examination began to hum, on the first floor, and the bees on the second. Presently a number of the latter dropped from the hive to the first floor. The County Superintendent found several buzzing about his ears, greatly to his annoyance. About this time an officer of the law came and demanded the right to search the house. It was granted. One of the School Directors mounted a bench, ascended to the loft, and soon returned with the treasure—a hive filled with honey. It was now proposed to test the contents, which were accordingly issued out by one White, and were found to be a prime article. The County Superintendent likes honey, but would rather have it stored elsewhere than in school house lotts.

A Hasty Marriage.

A few months ago a rather good-looking stranger, peddling spectacles, made his appearance in Lost Valley Creek, this county, and called at the house of a poor but respectable family, and requested the old lady to buy a pair of spectacles. She jokingly remarked, "I have no money, but I will trade you one of my daughters for a pair." Upon this the youngest of the two girls spoke up—"You need not trade me, mother, for I won't have him." The pedler then turned to the elder and said, "Well, will you have me?" The answer was promptly "Yes." The spectacles were handed over, and that night they were married by 'Squire L——. A short honeymoon of three days passed pleasantly enough, the peddler going out on a trading expedition each morning and returning faithfully each evening. One or two nights he was absent, but made amends by bringing his wife presents. One morning he departed, (to make a long story short) and never returned since. He gave his name as Parker, which was no doubt fictitious. He has since married, as we were informed the other day, a young girl under similar circumstances, near Shay's Mills, in Snyder county.—Juniata Republican.

Just How to Do It.

An exchange says: If you wish to keep your town from thriving, turn a cold shoulder to every young mechanic or beginner in business—kill him off if you can. Look up to every new comer with a scowl and discourage all you can; if that won't do, decry his work and go abroad for wares of his kind, rather than give him your money. Last, but not least, refuse to patronize the village paper. "Then go to seed." There is no more effectual way to retard the growth of a town than this.

Teachers Institute.

We hope that the call of the County Superintendent in another column, for a meeting of the County Teachers' Institute, will be heeded. The object of the meeting is a worthy one, and it is just the time some preparation was made to advance the interest of common schools in this county. We predict a large and a profitable meeting, but to make it such, a full attendance of all the teachers of the county is necessary.

—The mountains in the neighborhood of Mount Union, have been burning for four or five days with great violence. The fire commenced near the Lewistown Narrows, and has been steadily extending across the southern end of Juniata county, and coming down the Tuscarora Valley. This accounts for the smoky darkness in which we have been living for the past week.

☞The largest facilities and the longest experience in manufacturing, enable the house of FAIRBANKS & Co., to produce the best scales at the cheapest price. Every modification of weighing is made, all of the highest excellence, as was shown by their receiving the first premiums at the Paris Exposition.

How Wonderful

It is, that A. L. Lewis, in Leister's Building, Huntingdon, can sell Hats, Caps, Boots and Shoes, SO VERY CHEAP. In fact every article that he has for sale is cheaper than at any other store in the county. Receiving new goods daily. †

SHERIFF'S SALES.—By virtue of writs of Lev. Fa. and Fieri Facias directed to me, I will expose to public sale or outcry, on the premises, in Cromwell twp., Huntingdon co., on THURSDAY, 28th of NOVEMBER, 1867, at 10 o'clock, A. M., the following described property to wit:

All that certain real estate known as the Rockhill Furnace property, situate in the townships of Cromwell, Shirley and Springfield, in the county of Huntingdon and State of Pennsylvania, consisting of the following described real estate, viz:

A tract of land situate in Cromwell township, containing about twenty acres, being part of a survey in the name of William Chambers, on Black Log creek, on which Rockhill Furnace, and the buildings appurtenant thereto, are erected

Also, a tract of land lying on the Black log mountain, in Cromwell township, claimed by improvement, bound on the north or north east by a survey in the name of James Morris, and on the south west by an improvement of William Moore, containing 400 acres, more or less.

Also, a tract of land in Cromwell township, in whole or in part, and on the top of Black Log mountain, the same being part of the improvement of the said William Moore, for which a warrant of 300 acres was taken out by James M. Bell, dated the 8th of February, A. D. 1836, bounded on the north east by the last mentioned tract, and on the south or south west by a tract surveyed in the name of Nathan Orl, containing 200 acres, more or less.

Also, a tract of land in Springfield township, and on the top of Black Log mountain bound on the north or north east by the last mentioned tract, surveyed on a warrant in the name of Nathan Orl, and containing 4:1 acres and 2 perches.

Also, a tract of land in Springfield township or Cromwell township, surveyed on a warrant in the name of James Brown, containing 364 acres and 65 perches.

Also, a tract of land in Cromwell or Springfield township, surveyed on a warrant in the names of John Duffey, containing 150 acres, more or less. The right and privilege of digging, raising and carrying away iron ore on the land of Andrew Ripple, in Cromwell township, as per article of agreement recorded in Huntingdon county in Record Book X. page 349, &c.

Also, the undivided fourth part of a tract of land in Cromwell township, containing about 200 acres, late the estate of Hugh Logan, junior, deceased, adjoining lands late of Ridgley & Cromwell, about 40 acres of which are cleared.

Also, about 550 acres of land lying on Sandy ridge, and parts adjacent in Cromwell and Shirley townships, surveyed in the names of Jane Chambers, Rhuhana Colhoun and others, two dwelling houses being erected on the survey in the name of Jane Chambers.

Also, four adjoining tracts of land lying on Black Log mountain, north east from said Furnace, in Cromwell township, one surveyed in the name of James Nixon, containing 396 acres, 65 perches; one surveyed in the name of Henry Joseph, containing 412 acres and 139 perches; one surveyed in the name of James Henry, containing 427 acres and 154 perches; and the other thereof surveyed in the name of Henry James, containing 322 acres and 64 perches.

Also, a tract of land in Cromwell township, lying on the Black Log mountain, southwardly from said Furnace, surveyed in the name of James Morris, containing 454 acres and 33 perches.

Also, A tract of land in Cromwell township, surveyed in the name of Cornelius Howard, containing ——.

Also, a tract in the name of Josephus Murray, in said township, containing 122 acres and 126 perches.

Also, a tract in said township in the name of Thomas Bond, containing 392 acres, 22 perches.

Also, a tract in said township in the name of Richard Ashman, containing 80 acres.

Also, a tract in said township, containing 200 acres, sold to James M. Bell, as the property of George Cornelius.

Also, the undivided half of a tract in said township, in the name of Joseph Grubb.

Also, A tract in said township, containing 200 acres, sold to James M. Bell as the property of Mathias Ripple, deceased.

Also, a tract in said township, containing 2½ acres, bought by James M. Bell from Jacob N. Coughenour, one acre of land part of the Andrew Ripple farm.

Also, the right to take iron ore from the Cunningham ore bank, as fully as the same is vested in them.

Also, a tract in said township, containing 100 acres, more or less, sold as the property of Andrew Ripple.

Also, a tract in Springfield or Cromwell townships, in the name of Jacob Weaver, containing 388 acres, and 106 perches.

Also, all their right, title and interest of, in and to the "Hugh Logan Farm."

Also, all their right, title and interest of, in and to two tracts of land in the name of Isett Wigton & Co., situate in the township of ——, one thereof containing 180 acres and 72 perches, the other thereof containing 270 acres and 38 perches.

Also, all the defendants' right, title and interest in and to a tract of land situate in Cromwell township, Huntingdon county, containing 130 acres, more or less, adjoining lands of Samuel Booher on the south, and Asa Price and I. Painter on the west and east, formerly owned by Hezekiah Rickets, having "Malinda Forge and Furnace" thereon erected, seventy-five acres of which are cleared.

Also, a tract of land situate in Cromwell township, surveyed in the name of Sarah Ashman, containing 166 acres, more or less, adjoining land now or late of Andrew Sheffler, senior, and James Sheffler, on the east, D. N. Carothers and Dutton Sem on the west, about 10 acres of which are cleared, having a small house and stable erected thereon. Being the same two tracts of land which were conveyed to said Bernard Lorenz and Levi G. Leamer by deed of Thomas E. Orbison, dated 26th day of November, A. D. 1863.

Also, A tract of land in said twp., county aforesaid, surveyed in the name of David Brown, containing 400 acres.

Seized, taken in execution, and to be sold as the property of Levi G. Leamer, and Sarah Lorenz, administratrix of Bernard Lorenz, deceased.

By virtue of sundry writs of Fiera Facias, I will expose to public sale on FRIDAY, the 29th of NOVEMBER, or immediately after the sale of the above named real estate, the following personal property viz:

17 head of mules, 10 head of horses, 7 six horse wagons, 3 two horse wagons, 1 cart and harness, 30 sets of horse and mule gears, about 35,000 bushels of charcoal, 1500 cords of wood, a large lot of colliers' tools, miner's tools, lot of lumber and wagon stuff, oak plank, wagon hubs, 3 mining cars, 1 pair platform scales, flour scales, 1 cutting box and fodder crusher, 1 jack screw, and lot of new wagon boxes, and a large lot of tools, wheelbarrows, baskets, cars, tools, &c., about furnace, and any and all other personal property of defendants, subject to levy and sale.

Seized, taken in execution and to be sold as the property of Levi G. Leamer and Thomas H. Lovell.

MEDICAL ELECTRICITY

BY

DR. WILLIAM BREWSTER,

M'CONNELLSTOWN, PA.

For the benefit of those proposing to undertake Electrical treatment for diseases we give in the following list a few of the more prominent and most common complaints met with in our practice, in all of which we are most successful. In NEARLY ALL CASES OF CHRONIC DISEASE, ELECTRICITY IS A SURE REMEDY, AND IN ALL CASES BENEFICIAL, IF PROPERLY APPLIED. There, therefore, afflicted with complaints not here enumerated, need have no hesitation in applying, and whether only RELIEF, or a PERMANENT CURE can be effected, they will receive replies accordingly. All communications free.

1 Epilepsy, Chorea, St. Vitus' Dance, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Hysteria, Nervousness, Palpitation of the Heart, Lock-Jaw, etc.
2 Sore Throat, Dysppsia, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Obstinate Constipation, Hemorrhoids, or Piles, Bilious, Flatulent, and Painter's Colic, and all affections of the Liver and Spleen.
3 Catarrh, Cough, Influenza, Asthma, (where not caused by organic disease of the heart,) Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Rheumatism of the Chest, Consumption in the early stages.
4 Gravel, Diabetis, and Kidney Complaints.
5 Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, Stiff Neck, Spinal Diseases, Hip Diseases, Cancers, Tumors; (these last named always cured without pain, or cutting, or plasters in any form)

In a word, we propose to cure all curable diseases.

We have no connection whatever with any other Electrical office in this or any other county

AN IMPROVEMENT IN LIGHT!

We take pleasure in putting before the public a LAMP for burning fat, lard or tallow, which is superior to any of the kind ever introduced. It differs from all others, as it does not require the fat to be melted before lighting. It heats the fat by a copper pipe, which conducts the heat under the fat and melts it immediately.

Thousands of the lamps have been sold and no complaints have been made. All Lamps warranted to give general satisfaction, or the money refunded.

A rare opportunity is offered to any person or persons that may wish to engage in the business. Huntingdon and Mifflin counties will be sold in townships at reasonable terms to suit purchasers. A sample lamp will be forwarded to any person on receipt of retail price, $1,50, and forwarded at my expense.

Will either sell territory or pay agents by the day or piece. Agents are making from $5 to $15 per day, for they sell very fast. They are what every person needs. All letters will receive prompts attention.

Address or call on D. WALKER,

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Agricultural Gleanings.

Dr. Guyton, of Paris, has written a paper for the Paris Academy of Science, to prove that the disease of glanders can be transmitted from the horse to man. The Doctor relates cases which came under his own observation.

To revive faded Flowers cut the stalk, and hold it a few moments in the flame of the candle, and then set the flower again in the cold water, when it will recover its strength almost visibly after this violent assistance, and blossom immediately.

Mealy Potatoes—An exchange gives the following method of preventing potatoes from sprouting which we hope will be tried and approved: Take good, sound potatoes, place them in a tub or barrel, and pour boiling water over them until the eyes are scalded so they will not sprout; dry the potatoes thoroughly in the sun, and put away in a box or barrel in a cool, dry place. This will give good mealy potatoes all the time.

Manuring Trees.—Too many, in applying manure to their fruit trees, forget the position of the roots, and apply within a foot or so of the body. If they are careful to remove the soil, they would find that trees of vigorous growth, and from seven to ten feet high, have roots, that are really the main source of nourishment, varying from six to ten feet from the body. The application of manure, therefore, to give the best results, should be distributed around the tree at a distance from five to eight feet from the trunk. In positions where the turf is desired to be maintained, cut and roll it back, put on the manure, fork it tightly, and then replace the turf.—Horticulturist.

Keep Hogs Confined—The Northern farmer saves himself the expense of guano by keeping his hogs always penned and supplied with all kinds of weeds and litter, thus making tons of excellent manure every year. Five tons of manure, worth not less than five dollars per ton, if Peruvian guano is worth eighty dollars, may be made from one hog in a year, provided a sufficiency of muck, straw, or litter of any kind, be supplied. A fair proportion of the manure thus made should be saved for fertilizing ground for a large crop of pumpkins or squashes, corn sowed in drills, yams, or whatever else will grow rapidly and produce surely and freely, good feed for the hogs, whose numbers should be each year increased, until large quantities of manure are made.

Bats—These little creatures, so generally regarded with aversion, are entirely inoffensive to man, and highly useful, as they subsist entirely on insects and require a large amount of food. They enter our dwellings only in search of flies and mosquitoes. Their young are born two at a time, and cling to the mother during her flights until old enough to fly on their own account. They have small, clear, bead like eyes, and see tolerably well, so that "blind as a bat" is not so blind as some suppose; but their senses of hearing and smell are so acute that when their eyes are put out, they will fly swiftly, catching insects and avoiding obstacles with great dexterity. When at rest they fold their web wings very closely and hang suspended by their little slender hooked thumbs. In winter they collect in clusters in deserted buildings, caves and hollow trees. If caught they bite fiercely, but if undisturbed hurt nothing but their natural prey, and in their vocation of fly catcher are eminently successful and useful.

Fertilizers—The Agriculturist for November has an article on "What shall the South do for manure?" The question is equally applicable to, if not so urgent, in the North, and the answer is so good that we give it entire, and invite the close attention of our country friends to this important question of increasing the fertility of their lands. It is a great mistake to so cultivate land that it deteriorates. Land, as well as man and plants, should improve by cultivation. If it does not the earth cannot be made to sustain a population made more dense than it now does. If suffered to run down it must reach a point when the race will die out. No question of Reconstruction, of War or Peace, of Finances, Tariffs or Education, is so far reaching and so universal, in its importance, as that of improving the soil. We therefore keep it before the people, and ask all thinking men to give attention to the wicked waste of valuable manures which characterizes the general habits of our people. Our air is everywhere poisoned by foul gasses from decaying matter going to worse than waste; while our fields are yearly depleted to supply the demands made upon them. The best wheat is only grown on new land, whereas wheat, the great staple of life, should be improved both in quantity and quality, by continued cultivation. When farmers understand their business, and cultivate wisely, the land which brought the best wheat forty years ago will bring better, and more of it, forty years hence; and instead of bequeathing to our posterity lands which shall cry out against us as despoilers, the inheritance we leave our children will be richer than that we received from our fathers.

—Friendship is never beset with such peril as when it tries to blend censure with advice.

—Why is the man that blows the bugle like a schoolmaster? Because he's a "tutor."

—Why is a well trained horse like a benevolent man? He stops at the sound of "wo."

—An old maid, speaking of marriage, says its like any other disease—while there's life there's hope.

—Why is a pretty young girl like corn in a time of scarcity? Because she ought to be husbanded.

—Why is a candle maker the worst and most hopeless of men? Because all his deeds are brought to "light."

—Widows have been compared to green wood, which, while it is burning on one side, is weeping on the other.

—Anticipated pleasures often prove, when they arrive, to be no pleasures; just as to-morrow, when it comes, isn't to-morrow.

—A country boy, who had read of sailors heaving up anchors, wanted to know if it was sea sickness that made them do it.

—We ascertain the qualities of a bell by ringing it. A young man had better ascertain the qualities of a belle before ringing her.

—A farmer, when flagellating two of his oldest boys, was asked what he was doing. "Thrashing wild oats," was his reply.

—Why are women like houses? Because the longer they remain "to let," the more dilapidated and less desirable they become.

—"I'll give that girl a piece of my mind!" exclaimed a certain young fellow. "I wouldn't," replied his uncle, you've none to spare."

—A young fellow, fond of talking, remarked, "I am no prophet." "True," replied a young lady present; "to yourself or to any one else."

—The height of politeness is passing around upon the opposite side of a lady, when walking with her, in order not to step upon her shadow.

—An Irish absentee is said to have sent this comforting message to his steward: "Tell the tenants that no threats to shoot you will terrify me."

—Josh Billings says if a man is going to make a business of serving the Lord, he likes to see him do it when he measures onions, as well as when he hollers halleluyar.

—As the purest steel is tempered and wrought to perfection, in proportion to the fiery ordeal through which it passes, so adversity alone can call forth the real virtues of individuals or nations. Few men or nations can stand up under great prosperity.

—An Irishman having challenged a gentleman to fight a duel, who somehow "forgot" to attend the appointment, met accidentally that same day the offending party, and thus addressed him: "Well, sir, I met you this morning, but you did not come; however, I am determined to meet you to-morrow morning whether you come or not!"

—The performance of "La Giese" in a Western theatre, lately, was suddenly brought to a stop by the manager appearing before the curtain and informing the audience that his wife, who was to have played one of the "virgins," had at that moment been safely delivered of a fine, stout boy.

—Halab, the Arabian, being asked what was the most excellent thing in man, replied, "Sense." But if we have none, what is best then? "Honesty." But if he has not that?" "The counsel of his friend," replied the doctor. And in want of that? "Taciturnity." And if he cannot have any of these things? "A sudden death as soon as possible."

—"Hallo, there, how do you sell wood?"

"By the bundle."

"How long has it been cut?"

"Four feet."

"I mean how has it been since you cut it?"

"No longer than it is now."

"Look here, old fellow, you are too bright to live long."

—In a school, recently, a teacher took occasion to relate an anecdote of the little girl who tried to "overcome evil with good" by giving a New Testament to a boy who had ill treated her. The story was appreciated, for a few minutes afterward one boy struck another, and on being asked the reason, said he was "trying to get a Testament." This was a practical bearing altogether unexpected.

—An old negro woman, terribly racked with rheumatism, and despairing of relief at the hands of Cairo physicians, expressed an earnest desire to see Dr. Monroe, as she believed he was the only medicine man living who could cure her. "Why, chile," persisted the innocent old creature, "I've hearn of dat Monroe doctrine everywhere; even afore I left the Carolinas; but if he ever doctored there, it must have been at a very early period; I neber seed him."

BEALE'S

Late Powell's Embrocation,

For all Diseases Incident to HORSES, CATTLE, and the HUMAN FLESH, Requiring the use of an External Application.

This new Compound, prepared by a practical Chemist having a full knowledge of all the medical virtues of each ingredient that enters into its composition, is warranted to exceed anything of the kind ever yet offered to the Public as an external application for the diseases for which is is recommended. We are satisfied that it will work its own reed into the confidence of all who use it, and those who try it once will never be without it, and therefore we rely on experience as the best test of its usefulness. It is pronounced by Farriers, and all who have tried it to be the best application ever used. This Embrocation has been put up for over eight years, and it is only through the increasing demand and urgent request of my friends and the Public that I send it forth as the grand remedial agent for the various diseases to which that noble and useful animal, the horse, is subject

Many remedies have been offered to the Public under different forms, some of them are injurious, others at best of little use, and many wholly improper to answer the purpose for which they are recommended.

A judicious and really useful composition, free from those objections, has therefore long been desired by many gentlemen who have valuable horses, and are unwilling to trust them to the care of designing and pretended Farriers. Their wishes are at length fully gratified, by Dr. Beale being prevailed upon to allow this valuable Embrocation (which has proved so efficacious to the various diseases) to be prepared and brought out to the public.

This Embrocation was extensively used by the Government during the war.

SPEER'S PORT GRAPE WINE!

Excellent for Females and Weakly Persons.

Used by hundreds of Congregations for Church or Communion purposes.

VINEYARDS—Los Angeles, California, and Passaic, New Jersey.

SPEER'S PORT GRAPE WINE, Four Years Old. This justly celebrated native Wine is made from the juice of the Oporto Grape raised in this country. Its invaluable Tonic and Strengthening Properties are unsurpassed by any other native wine. Being the pure juice of the grape produced under Mr. Speer's own personal supervision, its purity and genuineness are guaranteed. The youngest child may partake of its generous qualities, and the weakest invalid may use it to advantage. It is particularly beneficial to the aged and debilitated, and suited to the various ailments that afflict the weaker sex. It is in every respect A WINE TO BE RELIED ON.

Invalids use Speer's Port Grape Wine; Females Use Speer's Port Grape Wine; Weakly Persons Find a Benefit by its Use; Speer's Wines in Hospitals are preferred to other Wines.

SPEAR'S PATENT

Fruit Preserving Solution,

FOR THE PRESERVATION OF ALL KINDS OF

FRUITS, VEGETABLES, JELLIES, WINES, CIDER, &c,

Without Sugar, and without Expensive Sealing or Air-tight Jars.

One Bottle will Preserve 128 Pounds of Fruit, or 48 Gallons of Wine or Cider.

CHEAP, HEALTHFUL AND EFFECTUAL.

'This Solution, when properly used, effectually prevents fermentation or decay of Fruits, and, by the most simple and inexpensive process every variety may be kept in a fresh and perfectly wholesome condition the year round. It is no new and uncertain experiment, but has been in practical use for the past eight years, yet has been, for the most part, kept from the public for the purpose of ascertaining the result of a series of experiments, all of which have proved the validity of all that is now confidently claimed for it.

Fruits preserved by this Solution are as good as the best "canned" fruits, while the use of the solution avoids the trouble of sealing, costly jars or cans, keeping from the air and light, frequent examinations, and the many other troubles and annoyances well known to every housewife.

Fresh native fruits the year round have become almost a household necessity, both on account of their healthfulness and as a luxury; and by the use of this solution this great luxury is within the reach of every family, rich or poor, in the land, as all kinds of fruit may be preserved, during pleasure at less than one-half the expense of any other method.

The solution is perfectly free from objection on the score of health. Professor Bache, under date "U. S. Navai Laboratory, New York, September 14, 1864," says: "By direction of the Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, I have examined
